satirical novel of china in the 1930 s

when a traveller from china crash lands on mars he finds himself in a country inhabited entirely by cat people befriended by a local cat man he becomes acquainted with all aspects of cat life he learns to speak felinese masters cat poetry and appreciates the narcotic effects of the reverie leaf their food staple but curiosity turns to despair when he ventures further into the heart of the country and the culture and realizes that he is witnessing the bleak decline of a civilization cat country lao she s only work of science fiction is both a dark dystopian tale of one man s close encounter with the feline kind and a scathing indictment of a country gone awry the transformation in chinese social theory in the twentieth century placed the rural urban divide at the centre of individual identity in 1500 such distinctions were insignificant and it was the emergence of political reforms in the early 1920s and 1930s which separated cities and towns as agents of social change and encouraged a perception of rural backwardness this interdisciplinary collection traces the development and distinctions between urban and rural life and the effect on the chinese sense of identity from the sixteenth century to the present day it provides a daunting example of the influence that political ideology may exert on an individual s sense of place this research analyzes lao she s novel cat country and its use of satire in critiquing china s educational system and military weaknesses during the early twentieth century as cat country is one of the earliest examples of chinese dystopian satire this thesis briefly discusses the historical use of satire as a tool for the building up of society and the chinese setting for the writing of the novel a simple biography of lao she s time abroad and literary influences is provided as well as a brief synopsis of cat country the lion s share of this research focuses on showing how specific sections of cat country satirize either chinese military failings or weaknesses within the chinese educational system historical examples of military and educational system weaknesses from the early twentieth century are discussed through this analysis of cat country readers gain a better understanding of real social problems in early twentieth century china and the use of dystopian satire as a vehicle for concentrating public attention on specific social issues one of the most popular novelists of the twentieth century winner of a pulitzer and nobel prize for literature and an active social and political campaigner particularly in the field of women s issues and asian american relations pearl buck has until now remained hidden in public view best known perhaps as the prolific author of the good earth buck led a career which extended well beyond her eighty works of fiction and non fiction and deep into the public sphere in this critically acclaimed biography peter conn retrieves pearl buck from the footnotes of literary and cultural history and reinstates her as a figure of compelling and uncommon significance in twentieth century literary cultural and political history
